

GEO. BRADLEY IS CAUGHT BY WOMEN

George Bradley, an old man, was arrested last night upon complaint of residents near Twenty-sixth street and Wall avenue, and was charged with drunkenness in police court this morning, although the statements of the police make him guilty of a far more serious offense.

According to the statements, Bradley, while drunk, persuaded a little girl to go with him to the old house on the corner of Twenty-sixth street and Wall. He was observed by neighboring women, who hurried to the place and found the old man holding the little girl on his lap.

Bradley pleaded guilty of the charge of drunkenness but declared that he could remember nothing concerning his actions.

Judge Reader reserved sentence until the affair can be thoroughly investigated.

GOVERNOR SPRY IS ASKED TO NAME JUDGE

Both judges of the second district court being disqualified to hear the case of John S. Lewis against the Pingree National bank, in which the plaintiff seeks damages for alleged trespass, and neither of the judges feeling disposed to select another judge to hear it, Attorney John G. Willis has prepared a petition to Governor Spry asking the executive to exercise his prerogative and select a judge for the case. The petition will be presented to the governor within the next few days.

The plaintiff is suing the bank for well damages for trespass, in the many of the Pingree National bank, white in avenue, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets, over the property line and out on the sidewalk about three feet, the plaintiff claiming that the massive fence obstructs the view of his place of business which adjoins the bank on the north.

The case was brought in Judge Harris division of the district court, but the judge, claiming to be disqualified, transferred it to Judge Howell's division. Judge Howell in turn sent it back to Judge Harris, claiming that he, too, was disqualified. Judge Harris said he would not entertain the case after it had been transferred to the other division, and Judge Howell was not inclined to take the responsibility of selecting a third judge to handle the case.

His left Attorney Willis in the air his case with no landing in sight. It was expected that the two judges would get together and select a disinterested judge, but that has not been done and Mr. Willis stated this morning that he would ask Governor Spry to come to the rescue.

PARK NOT OPEN TO TOURISTS IN AUTOS

Judge A. R. Heywood had his plans made for a trip by automobile through the Yellowstone park, to start tomorrow afternoon, but today he received a telegram from the national park superintendent telling him the park will not be open to automobile tourists in this direction.

However, the judge is going to make the trip, but not by automobile. He expects to leave for the park tomorrow evening over the Oregon Short Line.

Following is the telegram received from Fort Yellowstone, Wyo.
"A. R. Heywood, Ogden, Utah: Automobiles not allowed in park except over Beaman, Yellowstone county, road through northwest corner, which is not a regular tourist route; no prospect of admitting them generally so far as I know. (Signed) Brett, Acting Superintendent."

AUTO GOES OVER THE DUGWAY AT NIGHT

While on their way to the canyon on a fishing trip last evening, C. A. Wright and a party of friends rode headlong in an automobile over the embankment at the head of the dugway leading to the mouth of Ogden canyon. The front of the automobile, was damaged to the extent that the machine had to be towed to the garage for repairs, but none of the occupants were seriously injured.

Mr. Wright states that he was turning the dugway at the top at a slow rate of speed when something went wrong with the steering of the machine and before he could stop, the machine plunged over the bank, running down the steep incline to the canal below, a distance of 40 or 50 feet. The occupants clung to the car and no one was injured, except Mr. Wright who suffered a slight abrasion of the right wrist and D. D. Grattan bruised on the left leg.

Had the car been going at a high rate of speed and turned turtle over the bank, serious results no doubt would have followed.

NEW PITCHER IS WITH OGDEN PLAYERS

Encouraged over their success in Montana and determined to lift themselves from the cellar position, the Ogden league players arrived in Ogden at 9:20 o'clock from the north and continued on to Salt Lake where the week's series with the Skyscrapers begins this afternoon.

The boys were met at the depot by several loyal fans who shook hands and congratulated them on their work. Hal Rushtenhaven, southpaw pitcher, formerly with Topeka in the Western league and a new addition to the Lobsters, joined the team at Ogden. He arrived in Ogden yesterday and comes well recommended.

A special Pullman coach was placed at the disposal of the Ogden and Salt Lake ball teams and the two teams were comfortable during their ride from Montana. Kitty Knight stopped over to attend to a few matters requiring his attention, but the others, including "Dad" Gmlin, business manager, continued on to Salt Lake.

Risberg and Woolums, the players who joined the team during the trip, were seen for the first time by Ogden fans. At Salt Lake, the arrival of the train with the teams was the signal for an ovation. The fans had gathered in force at the O. S. L. depot with automobiles and a brass band. After a few preliminary details, the players were bundled in the autos amid the music of the band and were hurried to the hotels to rest for the game this afternoon.

During the stop here, Gmlin and Knight expressed confidence in the team as it now stands. While the met are not heavy hitters, they believe that their work in the field coupled with the heavy work of the pitching staff will make them strong opponents to the swatters of McCloskey.

With Knight, Sinclair, Ballinger, Fiddler and Rustenhaven on the pitching staff, Ogden has little to fear in comparison with other teams' pitchers. The work of Knight against Duffy, the Great Falls' pitcher recently sold to Pittsburgh for $3000, marks Ogden's manager as a wonder. Sinclair's steady work is winning him a home in the league as likewise is the pitching of Fiddler. By his work on the mound, Ballinger is becoming known as a batter puzzler, and with the new pitcher, a southpaw it would appear that the combination is complete.

There were a number of local fans who boarded trains for Salt Lake at 1 o'clock today to attend the first game of the series with Salt Lake.

FUNERAL OF EDNA KELLY GODDARD

With numerous floral tributes in evidence and the meeting house filled with sympathizing friends, funeral services for Edna Kelly Goddard were held yesterday afternoon at the first ward with Bishop D. H. Ensign officiating.

The opening prayer was offered by President C. F. Middleton who was followed by a quartette, consisting of Jed Ballantine, Carl Allison, George Douglass and Leo Madsen, which gave two numbers.

Bishop Ensign sketched the life of the deceased. For many years he had

FORM NEW CITY.
Beason, N. Y., July 1.—A new city was placed officially on the records of New York state when the sister villages of Mattawean and Fishkill became merged as the city of Beacon. Beacon incidentally brings to the state the first trial of the commission form of government in New York. Mayor Frost took office today with five commissioners, who will be aided by an advisory committee of twenty.

ELKS BOOSTED AT LAGOON RESORT

To boost for Ogden in general and the Purple Day celebration in Ogden canyon, on July 4, in particular, a rousing delegation of local Elks went to Lagoon yesterday with the Huntsville brass band as a feature and aided the Salt Lake lodge of the antlered ones in making Purple Day at the resort a successful event. Thousands of tags were carried by the locals and there was not a person on the grounds who did not wear an Ogden tag within 15 minutes after the arrival of the train bearing the Ogdenites. In addition, several hundred attractive souvenir programs of the Purple Day events were distributed.

The only sad affair during the entire day was the defeat of the Ogden Elks ball team by the Salt Lakers. Nevertheless, the locals put up a stiff fight and the game ended with the score standing 15 to 14.

Quite a number accompanied the team to the resort in the afternoon and witnessed the game which was a thriller. It required nine umpires to render decisions. After the original umpire had stood his ground through several alleged poor decisions he retired in haste. His successors did not last so long.

Those who could not go down in the afternoon, joined the boosters in the late afternoon. The Huntsville band were the guests of the lodge and the musicians proved most accommodating. With Walter Sanderson in the lead carrying the banner, followed by the bandmen in their natty uniforms, the crowd marched to the Banhammer depot at 7 o'clock. Rex Kelly bent the base drum. A farewell selection was rendered at the depot.

At arrival at Lagoon, orders were given to line up before entering the gate. John Culley insisted on handling the snare drum in the band. The band struck up a stirring march and the parade began. At the dance pavilion the orchestra gracefully gave way to the musicians from the mountains and the dancers ceased their gliding to witness the entry of the Ogden bunch.

Sanderson was the drum-major and the band followed his graceful movements. He led into the hall where the march around the dance floor was greeted with a storm of applause. Thereupon he led the procession around the grounds.

After that there was a continual round of tagging, dancing and parading with the band. During the dance intermission, the place of the regular orchestra was taken by the Huntsville band. The fun continued until the 10:55 o'clock train.

"PLUCKING BOARD" OF NAVY MEETS

Washington, July 1.—The navy "plucking board" finished its labors early this morning and before night five captains, four commanders, four lieutenant commanders and two lieutenants who under the law had been selected for retirement from the service probably will know their fate.

Because the law prohibited the signing of the reports of the board before July 1, the members waited until after midnight to attach their signatures after which it was approved by Secretary Daniels. The midnight ceremony was made necessary by the fact that President Wilson was to leave early today on the Yac Mayflower for a trip in Chesapeake bay. After navy officials had perused their signatures to the report it was hurried over to the White house for President Wilson's signature before leaving.
